

Fabric recommendation guide

Fabric recommendation guide

We have created this guide to provide greater clarity and ease for our clients when selecting the necessary fabrics for the seating furniture. Here, you will find our expert recommendations on fabrics best suited for specific seating collections, an outline of available options, and guidance on where certain fabric choices may not be applicable.

Please note that upholstered furniture, typically made with cut foam or polyurethane, is designed to interact with the human body and may vary depending on the fabric or leather used. Whether stiffer, recycled, thinner, or influenced by the furniture's shape and composition, not all materials provide the same level of comfort or visual appeal. This is why we highlight recommended combinations that work together harmoniously.

Recommended – marked as “+”.

The product with this fabric meets NARBUTAS' quality and visual standards. A 'recommended' combination represents the best option from a technological perspective. Folding and creasing are natural characteristics of fabric, leather and faux leather upholstery, and these traits are considered acceptable in 'recommended' combinations. Signs of natural wear, such as slight pilling, fading from sunlight, or small wrinkles, may appear over time and are not considered defects.

Available – marked as “O”.

The product with this fabric meets NARBUTAS' quality standards but may exhibit certain characteristics that are not considered defects. Due to variations in fabric composition, elasticity, and thickness, some fabrics may wrinkle, show small creases, highlight unevenness, or develop slight waves in certain areas as a result of natural wear and foam compression.

Not available – marked as “-”.

The product with this fabric cannot be used for production as it does not meet NARBUTAS' quality standards.

If you have any questions or need more detailed information, please refer to the fabric swatch cards or contact your assigned customer support manager.
